

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

The Creative Technology & Arts Center announces:

Pulse: A Journey through Light, Rhythm & Movement

Saturday Dec. 3rd

Pre-show Light Lab 6pm

Main Event 7pm

On December 3rd, The Creative Technology & Arts Center (CTAC) in Asheville's Montford neighborhood, will host "Pulse: A Journey through Light, Rhythm & Movement". This event will explore new worlds of creativity, through the overlapping rhythms of light, sound, dance & performance. This all-ages event will have something for everyone, including a "Light lab" for kids both before & during the main event. In the performance space, the sonic environment will be transformed into a shifting landscape where the musicians will "surround" the audience with water percussion, strings, didgeridoo's and a variety of electronics. The dreamer will be led through a pulsing cycle of performance, sound, movement, imagery & story.

Artists:

Sound: River Guerguerian, Chris Rosser, John Vorus, Kima Moore

Light: Gene Felice, Chad Adair

Performance: Julie Becton Gillum, Sara Baird

Dance: Kathleen Hahn, Kathy Meyers

Light Lab: Chynna Avery

Story Weaver: David Novak

$10 per person

$20 per family

To find out more, please visit www.ctacenter.org

Contact:

Gene A. Felice II, Media Relations

The Creative Technology & Arts Center

90 Zillicoa Street, Asheville NC

gfelice@odysseycommunity.org

(828) 515-1744

###